

ROMA

The puzzle grid is divided into regions (indicated by thick black lines).

The task is to place an arrow in each empty cell such that each region contains arrows that all point in different directions (up, down, right, and left).

Starting with any cell and following the direction of the arrows from one cell to another, the path must end in the cell with the black circle.

